// I was one of the biggest skeptics of spinal decompression. Then I discovered the DRX9000™ //

As surgeons, we sometimes feel we can cure everything. So when I heard about this non-invasive, non-surgical technique for relieving back pain, I had my doubts.

But I was committed to finding a more effective way to treat the hundreds of patients I see each year with herniated and degenerative discs – people for whom surgery seemed to be the only option.

So I did my research, and discovered the DRX9000 Spinal Decompression System from Axiom Worldwide. It changed my practice, forever.

How it works I learned how the DRX9000 is totally different from traction. How the angle of pull creates negative intradiscal pressure, promoting an osmotic gradient for water, nutrients and blood to flow back into the disc. It rehydrates and restores the disc, allowing healing to take place.

86% success rate I read the studies that confirmed an 86% success rate in relieving chronic and debilitating pain. In my office, the success rate is even higher.

Dr. Robert Hudgins, MD
Neurosurgeon

I studied pre and post MRIs, and I talked to doctors around the country who are using the DRX9000 with great success.

Axiom Worldwide I even flew to the Axiom Worldwide headquarters in Tampa, Florida, where they design, manufacture, test and ship each DRX9000 machine. Before you invest in any spinal decompression system, you need to visit the Axiom facility. It will open your eyes to what sets the DRX9000 apart.

The real deal The results are undeniable. Spinal decompression works. And the DRX9000 from Axiom Worldwide is the best spinal decompression system on the market.

WHAT NOT TO DO WITH A BAD REVIEW

Patient Complaint

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ 11/15/2013

Although Dr. Tim and his Secretary were very polite, and I believe that they had a general interest in helping me. I had reservations about posting this review because this office was so friendly and nice. After quite a bit on consideration, I feel that it would be irresponsible for me not to share my experience with people interested in seeking treatment from this office. I have to recommend that people do not seek treatment from this establishment. I purchased a Groupon (2 adjustments and X-ray) for $49.99, what a smoking deal. I had recently slept wrong and my neck hurt for a while, I am on a budget and needed a couple adjustments to get back on track.

1st visit:
My initial observation is that Dr. Tim is trying to treat too many people at once. He swiftly moves through people's adjustments taking roughly 5-10 per person. There is no privacy here just a partition that separates the adjustment area from the waiting room. I get my consultation 45 min after my initial appointment. He takes X-rays only for the first day no adjustment.

2nd visit:
He is again trying to serve too many people and my appointment was 30 min behind. This is where he tells me I am in grave danger and have early stages of arthritis in my neck and have a reverse curve. He adjusts me and puts me on a vibration plate for 3 min with a head weight to help re-align. Then takes more x-rays with the head weight on to compare against my first X-ray. He schedules my second adjustment along with a group meeting to "learn" how to read my X-rays, and a private consultation to review my results and discuss treatment options.

Chiropractor's Response

 Comment from Dr. Tim N. of Maximize Chiropractic Business Owner

12/4/2013 · Let me start by saying I welcome all reviews, both good and bad. Danielle is correct that during her time of visiting the office it was particularly busy and patients did experience unusual waits. This was caused by two things; first our Groupon response was much larger than we expected and many purchasers waited until the end of the coupon period to make their appointment, and secondly our office philosophy is that existing patients do not need to make appointments for specific times. The appointment is for a particular day and they have the flexibility to come in any time that day. For the majority of the day this allows maximum flexibility for our patients, but there are a couple of peak times where patients may experience a 10-15 minute wait.

I definitely won't comment on Danielle's specific medical condition and while she believed that she only needed "a couple adjustments to get back on track", I did not agree with her prognosis. I evaluate the specific condition of each patient and develop a treatment plan to treat their condition. I do feel it is important for patients to understand their x-rays. I take the time to teach each potential patient about x-rays and show them spinal columns in good health and those that need correction. I then meet with each potential patient individually to review their x-ray and to educate them about their current condition and the recommended treatment plan. My treatment plans are not meant to just get people out of pain. Many people have significant problems with this neck and/or back and never experience any pain until the problem is quite severe. I want to ensure that my patients never get to that chronic level and my goal is to fix their spinal issues now. That's why I never perform an adjustment until I have taken an x-ray. I do not want to adjust your symptoms; I want to adjust your problem.

My approach to health is holistic and I believe that if we allow our bodies to be perform as God designed them you can live long and healthy lives. In simple terms,

Problems

- Identified that she is a patient
- Talked about her treatment
- Mentioned prognosis
- Standard of Care
- *Groupon

- Thanks. We love what we do and we are glad it shows.

Bad Reviews

- Your feedback is appreciated. We have had problems with our scheduling in the past as a result of an increase in new patients and we are correcting the problem. We offer our patients the convenience of not making appointments which occasionally results in a bit of a wait.
- We are sorry to hear this. Our office structures patient visits to help as many people as possible. Every doctor practices in a unique way that might be better suited for some, but not all. We respect everyone's opinion and strive to help as many people as possible.
